AuditClub, the Audit Service Center for CPA Firms, announced today the launch of its new auditors-as-a-service model, designed to provide top 10, regional and local CPA firms with instant talent and fractional flexibility.

AuditClub and its team of chief auditors bring extensive credentials to offer strategic insights and deliver solutions in key areas that matter to accounting firms, enabling them to satisfy client demand without the typical investment required to hire and train an expensive partner, director or manager.

Founded and led by former audit partners with a unique and valuable mix of Big 4, regional and local firm experience, AuditClub is a licensed accountancy corporation based in the United States and registered with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB). On a mission to make public accounting better, AuditClub provides flexible access to a seasoned team of Chief Auditors with broad and deep professional experience that benefits AuditClub members.

“Our goal is to provide responsive, high-quality audit and assurance services for CPA firms that may not have the in-house talent or expertise to deliver these services efficiently and effectively,” said Chris Vanover, CEO and Chief Auditor of AuditClub. “Many firms are experiencing a critical shortage of qualified human capital, or their partners and managers are well beyond capacity, and even turning down new opportunities. Rather than reaching out to a recruiter or an independent contractor, AuditClub services are delivered through a unique membership model. In addition to unlimited email access via AuditClub Care, members also benefit from exclusive access to a team of Chief Auditors through technology-enabled and flexible month-to-month passes. With three levels of passes, AuditClub is tailored to meet firm service needs and scalable for varying budgets.

“The innovative offering from AuditClub breaks new ground in the pricing for professional firms,” said Ed Kless, co-host of “The Soul of Enterprise” podcast. “It allows for periodic recurring payments for ever-increasing value and serial customer transformations.”
