David Cardoza, Partnerships, Sales and Product at Expensify relayed, “Expensify partnered with Botkeeper to free up the time of accountants and their clients. From the point of purchase to reconciliation, accountants and their clients no longer spend valuable time filing away receipts.”

Botkeeper and Expensify see an opportunity to provide automation that enables accounting professionals to easily meet clients’ demands for ongoing back office accounting support and increasing demand for advisory, receipt and expense management services, while simultaneously increasing capacity to continue growth.

Deneen Dias, VP of Growth and Strategic Relationships at Botkeeper explained, “The Expensify team are disruptors in pre-accounting automation through expense management. They were first to market in capturing receipts and managing expenses by automatically importing and reconciling credit cards. They continue to be the leader in spend management. Botkeeper is excited to be syncing with like-minded innovators.”
