Everyone rallies for this program every year and really looks forward to rolling up our sleeves and working alongside others who are committed to helping those in need at so many levels. It's a logistical challenge to connect so many people with so many different organizations, many of which were recommended by our associates, but it is completely worth whatever it takes to make it happen. The Marcum Day of Service has truly become a highlight on our calendar, and we are so glad to be back, live and in-person this year," said Molly Crane, Marcum's Chief Human Resources Officer.
