deliver automated threat detection and response at scale. Leveraging machine learning, artificial intelligence, and Arctic Wolf's revolutionary Concierge Delivery Model, the Arctic Wolf Security Operations Cloud ensures only verified security incidents are escalated to customers, effectively eliminating alert fatigue, and providing internal security resources with the time needed to focus on improving their overall security posture.

"We are excited to have Eide Bailly as part of our award-winning Partner Program. Arctic Wolf's security operations expertise complements their suite of existing offerings to create a unified approach that will protect customers and advance their security journey," said Will Briggs, senior vice president of global channels, Arctic Wolf.

"With organizations facing the challenge of an ever-evolving threat landscape and global security talent shortage, the Arctic Wolf Security Operations Cloud allows customers to achieve not only world-class security operations, but also the protection and peace-of-mind that comes along with it."
