LOCKSTEP®

Lockstep, the connected accounting network, has announced its Lockstep Inbox now offers a Google-certified Gmail integration. Lockstep Inbox is the first and only free accounting inbox solution that allows teams to automate customer and vendor workflows in a single application.

Lockstep Inbox-certified integrations enhance the security, applicability, and usability of the overall product. The added Gmail integration ensures a secure connection for all Gmail users leveraging Lockstep Inbox.

“We have pledged from the beginning that we will connect the world’s accounting teams through whatever means necessary, to help them work better together,” said Matt Shanahan, Cofounder and VP of Strategy, Lockstep. “Our certified Gmail integration is another significant step in empowering more companies to leverage the workflow automation empowered by Lockstep Inbox, and in building the connected accounting network.”
