AuditClub, the Audit Service Center and creator of the innovative auditors-as-a-service model, has announced new and enhanced weekly passes that allow members to subscribe to AuditClub professionals with an experience level geared to the support they need during the upcoming busy season and beyond.

Members experience convenience and peace of mind by reducing the panic created by today's talent exodus. In addition to its existing AuditClub Chiefs passes, the company now offers its AuditClub Crew passes for CPA firms and companies to access virtual crew members with up to six years of experience who perform and review audit procedures based on a member's solutions requests.

The company has also enhanced its existing AuditClub Chiefs passes to provide greater simplicity and week-to-week convenience. These passes offer access to the company's fractional partners and managers who continue to deliver a full range of solutions in audit and assurance, quality management, regulatory matters and training.

With a strong demand for its transformative and full-range resource solutions, AuditClub continues to grow its employee base, including welcoming Connor Murdock as a senior crew member. Murdock is a licensed CPA who began his public accounting career with Deloitte in North Carolina where he spent nearly six years employees the balance nearly all of us in public accounting have been seeking. The creative and transparent compensation, a great culture and the chance to make my own mark on the business and profession as a whole made this a perfect opportunity to grow in my accounting career.”

“CPA firms and companies are at a crossroads with greater accounting and auditing complexity and record turnover driven by a mobile and empowered workforce. We launched AuditClub last year with a focus on our chief auditor offering. The idea for AuditClub Crew arose from conversations with our members about their talent challenges at all levels,” says Chris Vanover, CEO of AuditClub and an Accounting Today2022 Innovator to Watch.

“I’m excited about our new and enhanced subscriptions and proud to welcome Connor to our crew. We know CPA firms and organizations simply need help, and we have a flexible and innovative solution to make the upcoming season the best yet for our members,” he shares. “We continue our mission to make accounting and auditing better. AuditClub will keep challenging the traditional norms and find ways to create a more positive experience for those in our profession.”

Accounting firms and companies can learn more about AuditClub membership and subscribe to AuditClub Chiefs or Crew weekly passes by visiting the AuditClub website and scheduling a complimentary introductory meeting by clicking on Get a quote.
