The all-in-one expense management solution

BILL Spend & Expense, formerly Divvy, offers credit limits from $500-$5M* and automated expense management software that's free.

Divvy, the spending and expense management system, has been renamed as BILL Spend & Expense. The Divvy system was acquired by BILL in May, 2021.

The newly-branded system will continue to offer businesses an all-in-one spending and expense management solution that combines free software with corporate cards to provide real-time visibility and customizable control over business finances.

“Over the past year, we began creating a more seamless experience across products and a consistent look and feel. Now, we are making it easier to access both AP and AR as well as spend and expense management with a single brand and website,” the company said in a statement.

Under the new BILL Spend & Expense name, the system will offer the same features and capabilities, including creating budgets, tracking spend, and getting access to the lines of credit that businesses need to grow.

Current users of Divvy will see the branding elements automatically.

With BILL Spend & Expense becoming an integrated part of BILL’s integrated platform of solutions for accounts payable, accounts receivable, and spend and expense management, businesses can have better insight, control and efficiency over their cash flow.

The BILL Financial Operations Platform now includes:

- BILL Accounts Payable automates the entire AP process to help SMBs simplify invoice entry by using data capture and AI to streamline approvals. It also provides flexible ways to pay, bringing efficiency and visibility to financial operations.
- BILL Accounts Receivable automates AR through invoicing, estimates, payment tracking and collections so SMBs can get paid faster directly to a bank account via ACH and debit or credit cards.
- BILL Spend & Expense is an all-in-one spend and expense management solution that combines free software with corporate cards to provide SMBs with real-time visibility and customizable control over business finances.
