Hunger Champion Winner was Nichols, Cauley and Associates, raising $65,891.67 with the most statewide points overall. To view a complete list of the 2023 Accounting Food Fight winners by category, please visit www.feedinggeorgia.org/gaff.

The Georgia Accounting Food Fight is timed each year to restock the food banks after the summer surge they experience due to the conclusion of the school year (and school lunch assistance programs). During the friendly two-week competition, accounting professionals compete to raise funds for nine food banks across the state. All funds raised by each team stay local and benefit the food bank that serves its community. This year's competition was fierce, with teams vying for the coveted prize belt awarded to this year's Grand Prize Food Fight Hero and Grand Prize Hunger Champion.

“In the spirit of unity and service, the members of GSCPA have once again demonstrated the power of the united CPA community. Through our Food Fight initiative, CPAs raised $347,537, ensuring food security for many across Georgia. We take pride in the professional expertise and integrity of CPAs and in their deep-rooted commitment to our communities. Together, we're making a difference, one meal at a time.” – Boyd Search, CEO of The Georgia Society of CPAs.

Right now, 1 in 10 Georgians are experiencing food insecurity, meaning they may not know when their next meal may be. Fundraisers like the Georgia Accounting Food Fight are more crucial than ever. The fundraising efforts will directly support Feeding Georgia's mission to provide nutritious meals to those in need and create a hunger-free Georgia.

Since its inception in 2014, the Georgia Accounting Food Fight has collectively raised $2,198,972.94, the equivalent of 8,832,497.33 meals for the state's food banks.

The Georgia Society of CPAs extends its heartfelt gratitude to all participating teams,
