

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

Jason Bramwell • Oct. 25, 2023

As part of its continuing effort to improve taxpayer services and make the agency more technology-friendly, the IRS said on Oct. 20 that it has launched new business tax accounts, with the initial version geared toward sole proprietors.

Over time, companies will be able to check their tax payment history, make payments, view notices, authorize powers of attorney, and conduct other business with the IRS.

“This initial phase allows unincorporated sole proprietors who have an active employer identification number to set up a business tax account, where they can view their business profile and manage authorized users,” the IRS said in a press

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

English | Español | 中文\(简体\) | 中文\(繁體\) | 한국어
| Tiếng Việt | Kreyòl ayisyen

More In File

You can view your tax information on record with the IRS and do more with a business tax account. For your personal taxes, use online account.

Who can use

If you're a sole proprietor who files with an employer identification number \(EIN\), you can use business tax account. We're adding access for more business types soon.

What you can do

This initial version of business tax account lets you:

- View your name and address on file
- Give others in your company access to the account
- Request a tax check to see if your business is compliant

More features are coming soon.

If you have an online account: Use the same sign-in.

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved